DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The amendment filed 12/10/08 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132(a) because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132(a) states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: as in amended claim 9, that there is a “first operative sound signal recorded in a closed state of the valve induced during operation of the pump” and a “second operative sound signal recorded in an open state of the valve induced during operation of the pump”. In the embodiment of fig. 2, there is only one signal emitting from sensor 40 into filter 42 and there is no indication of a first and second signal being recorded in an open or closed state during operation of the pump. It appears there is one signal which is then used to calculate a single signal level which is then fed to a delay unit 46, which is stored. There is absolutely no indication of recording of signals in an open or closed state during operation of the pump. Note par [17] which indicates the comparison of a signal and a delayed signal and the state evaluation occurs prior to the calculation. If the signal is compared to a delayed signal, how is it also indicated that the signal is compared to a stored signal?

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. See paragraph 1 above for detailed explanation.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear what “second operative sound signal ...induced during operation of the pump” is referring to. Further, it is unclear how the evaluation device follows the calculating device and is for determining the valve state. Note that in fig. 2, the evaluation device 41 clearly includes more than the device for determining the state. Further, the recitation referring to signal output is unclear and appears to be incomplete.

Further, claims 10 and 11 appear to be repetitive of claim 9. Finally, claim 12 is also not clear. How is the valve state determined?
